Dataverse Guide for World Politics Authors

World Politics has a Dataverse archive, and authors who rely on quantitative data must place these data in this trusted digital repository upon acceptance.

The World Politics Dataverse can be found here: <https://dataverse.harvard.edu/dataverse/world-politics>. (See the author's guide to Dataverse for more details on the uploading process)

The information made available should include such items as the original data, specialized computer programs, lists of computer program recodes, extracts of existing data files, and, most importantly, an explanatory file that describes what is included in the data, how it was created, the sources from which it was drawn, and how to replicate the exact numerical results produced in the work.

Information should be provided in any published piece concerning the availability of the data. After you have uploaded the data to the World Politics Dataverse you will receive the citation information, which should be included in the bibliography, e.g.:

Meserve, Stephen A., and Daniel Pemstein. 2016, "Replication Data for: Google Politics: The Political Determinants of Internet Censorship in Democracies." Harvard Dataverse, V3. doi: 10.7910/DVN/Q0WIGS.

Include reference to the data author/date footnote style as the final paragraph of the acknowledgments, e.g.:

*For excellent comments, we thank the editors, four anonymous reviewers, and seminar participants at the 2013 Midwest Political Science Association annual meeting.

Replication data for this article is available at Meserve and Pemstein 2016.

Embargoes on original, proprietary data for up to two years beyond the date of publication (or other special circumstances affecting the decision to make data publicly available) will be considered, but must receive the approval of the editorial committee prior to publication.
